

Phlebiella fibrillosa sur mousse couvrant une branche pourrie de chêne ; cette belle espèce noircit au contact de KOH. Photos Bernard Clesse – Couvin, 13/10/2025

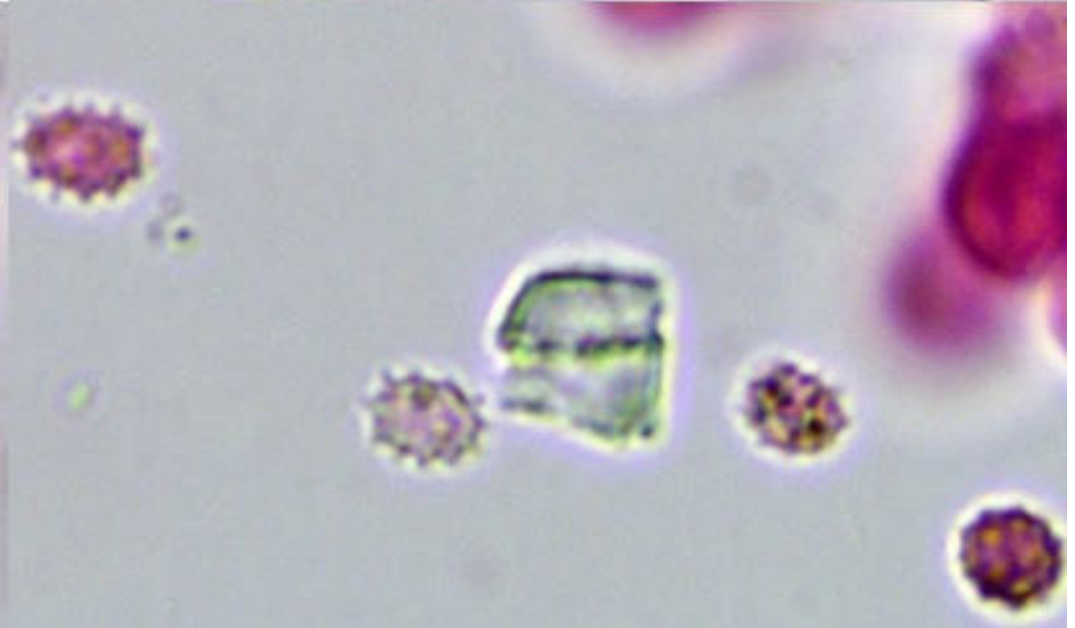

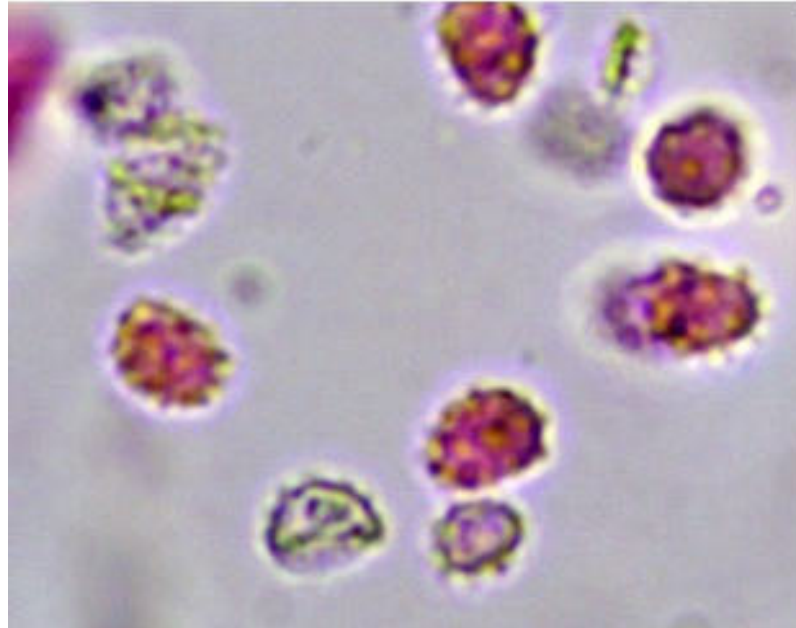

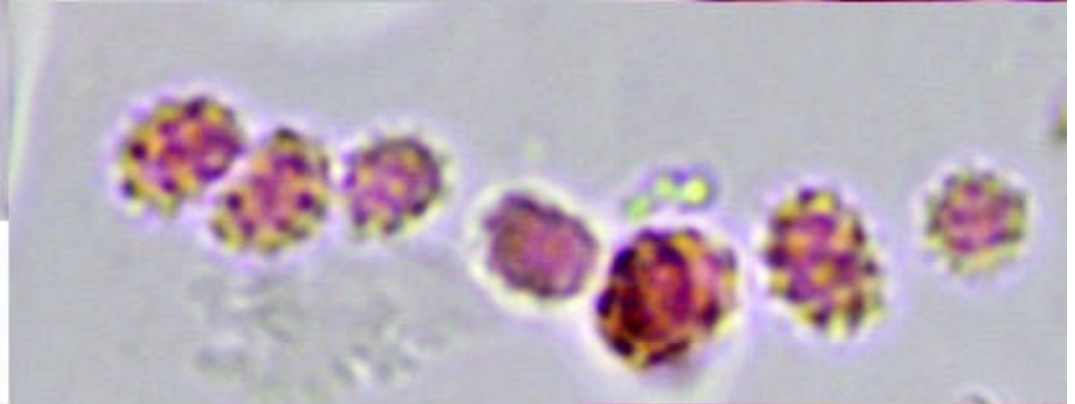

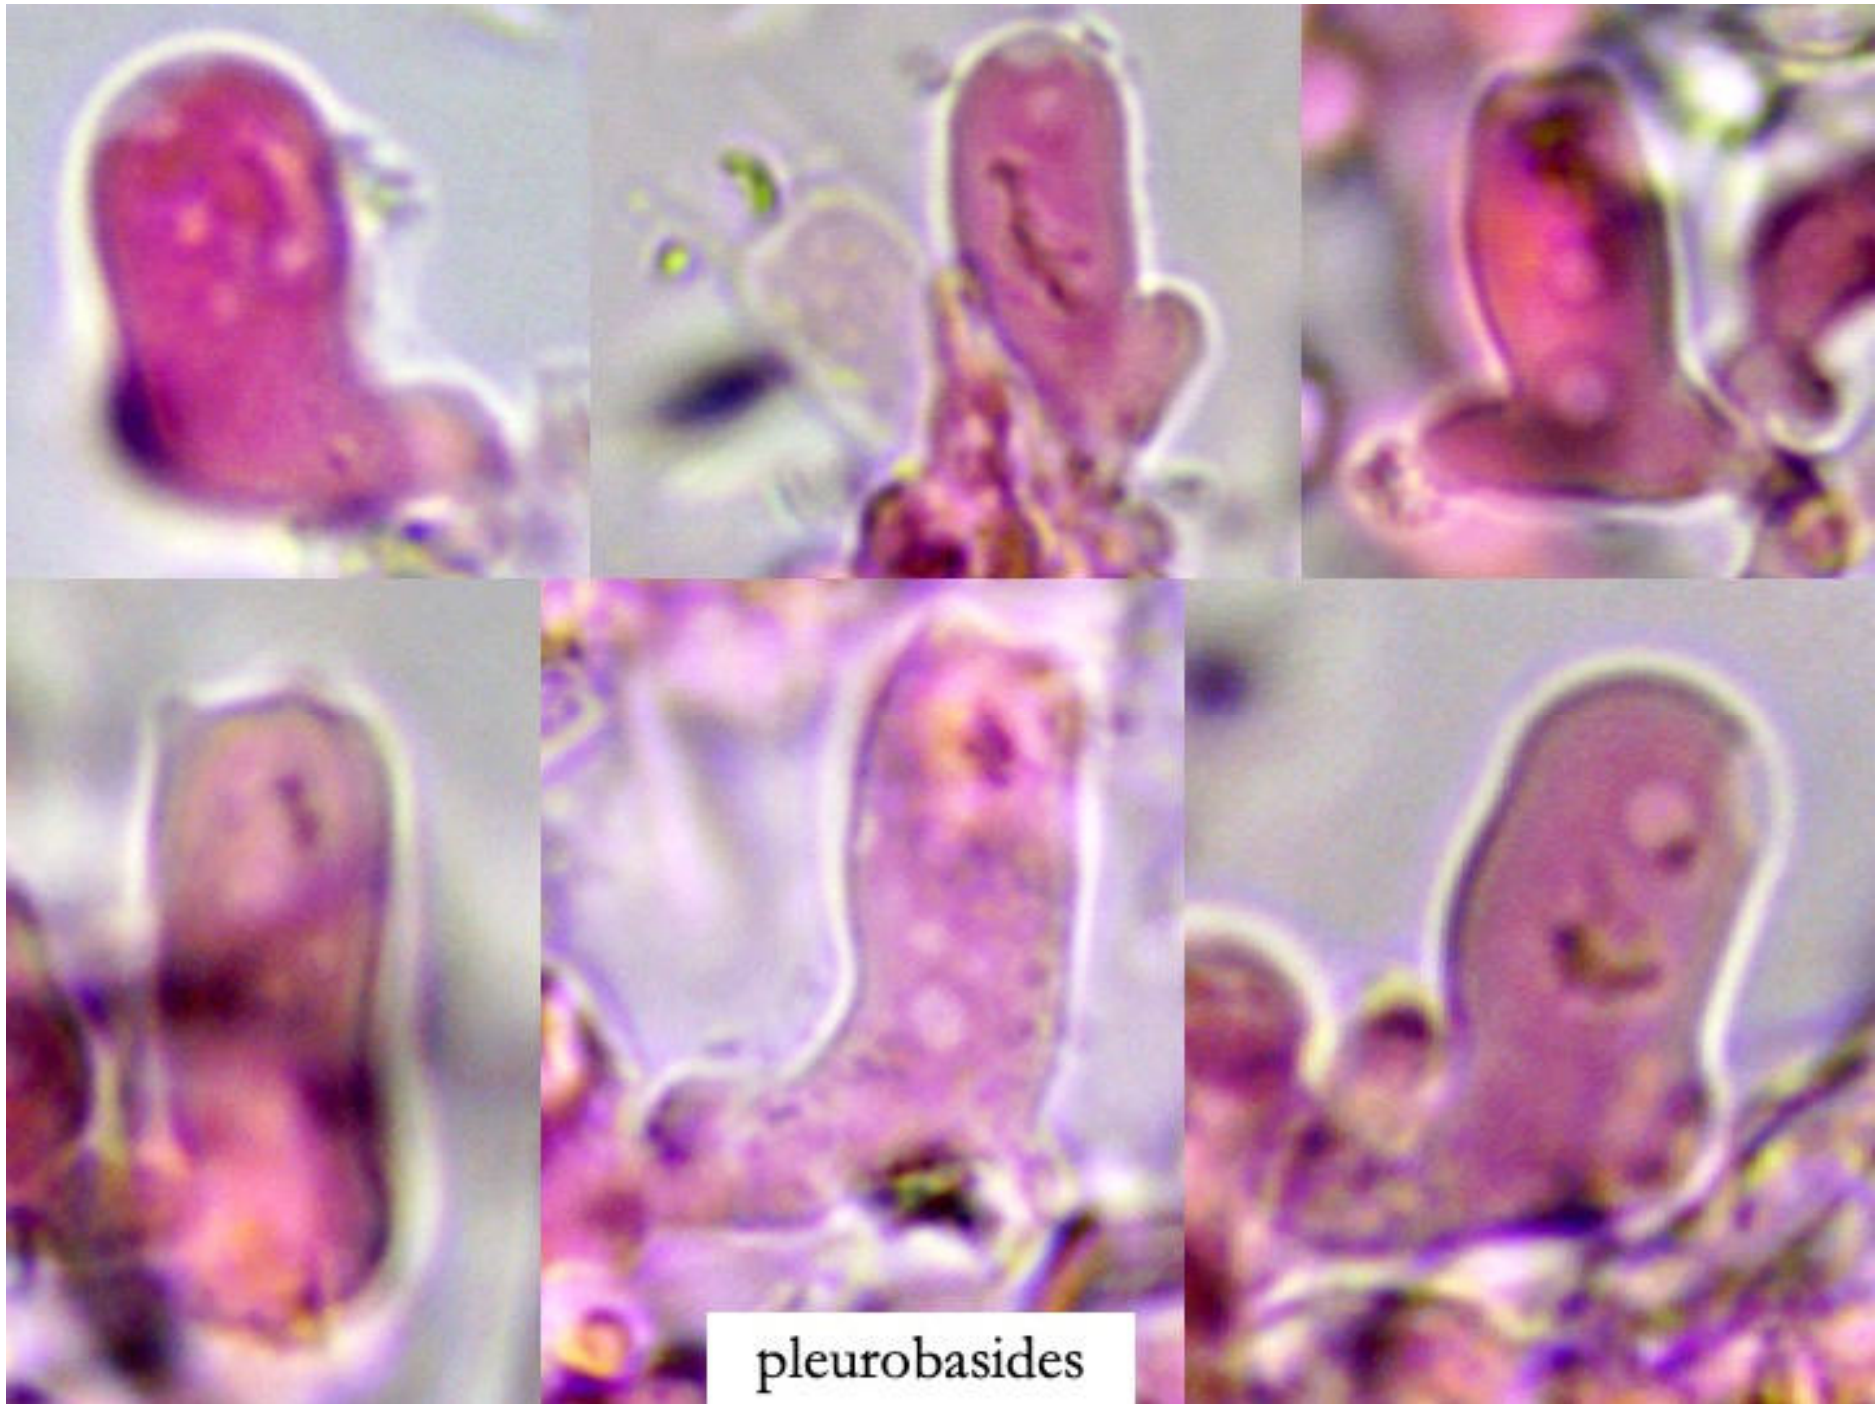

spores ellipsoïdes épineuses :
5-5,5x3,5 μm

spores ellipsoïdes épineuses :
5-5,5x3,5 μm

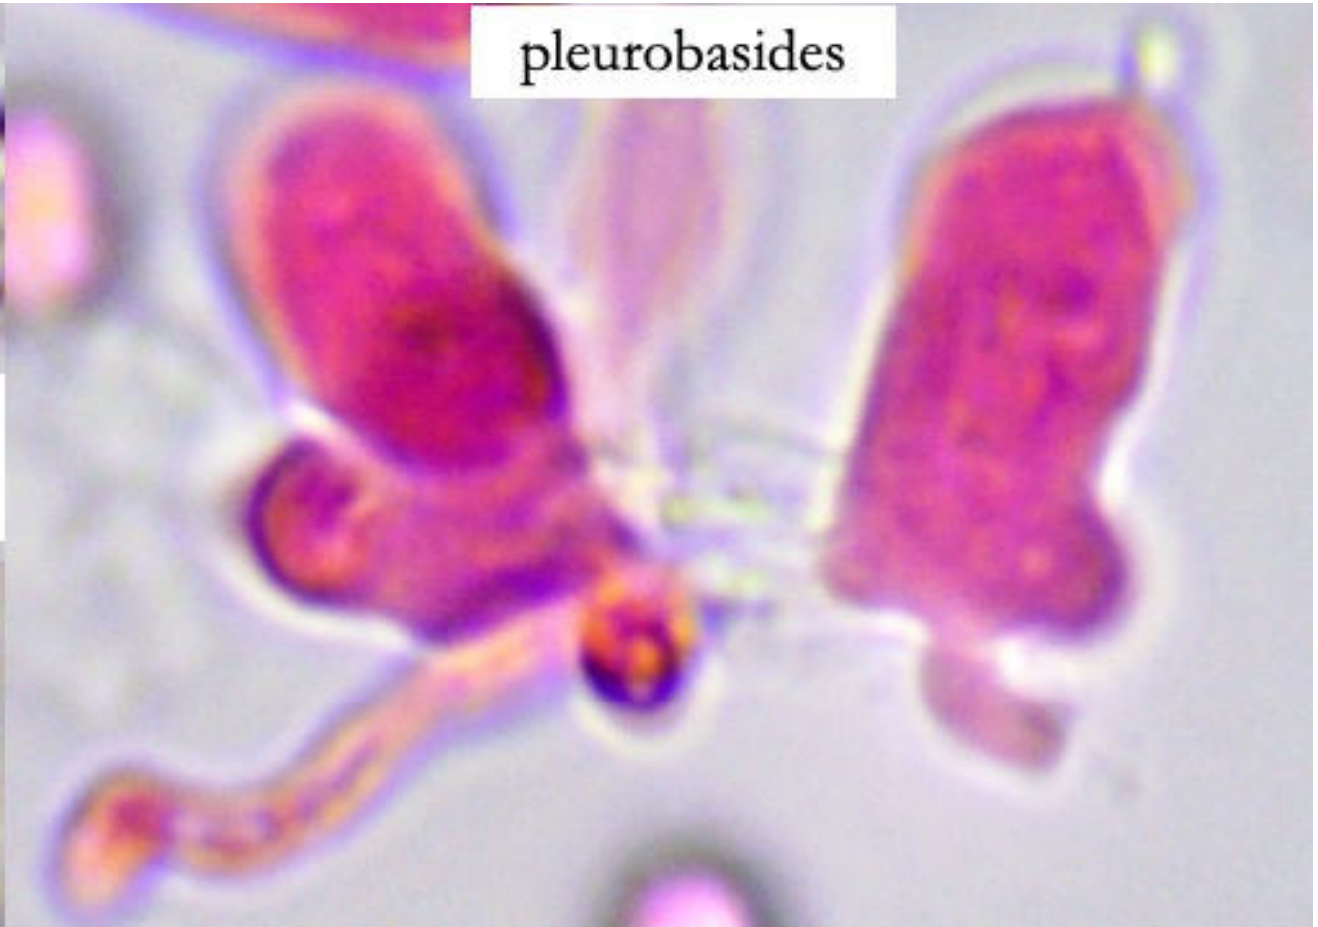

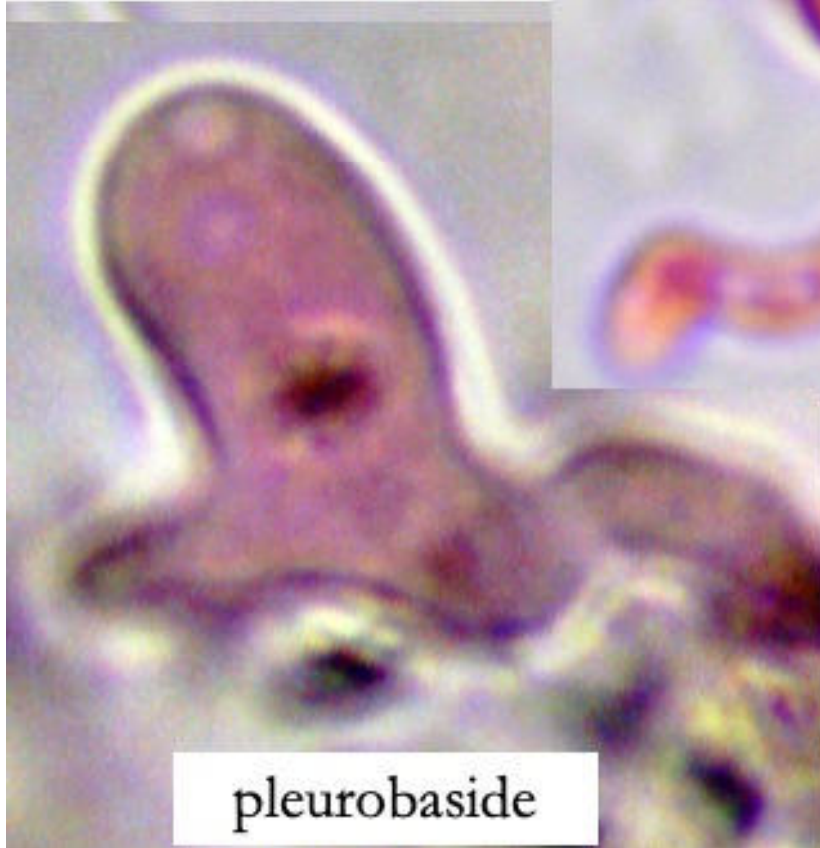

pleurobasides

monomitique hyphes
bouclées

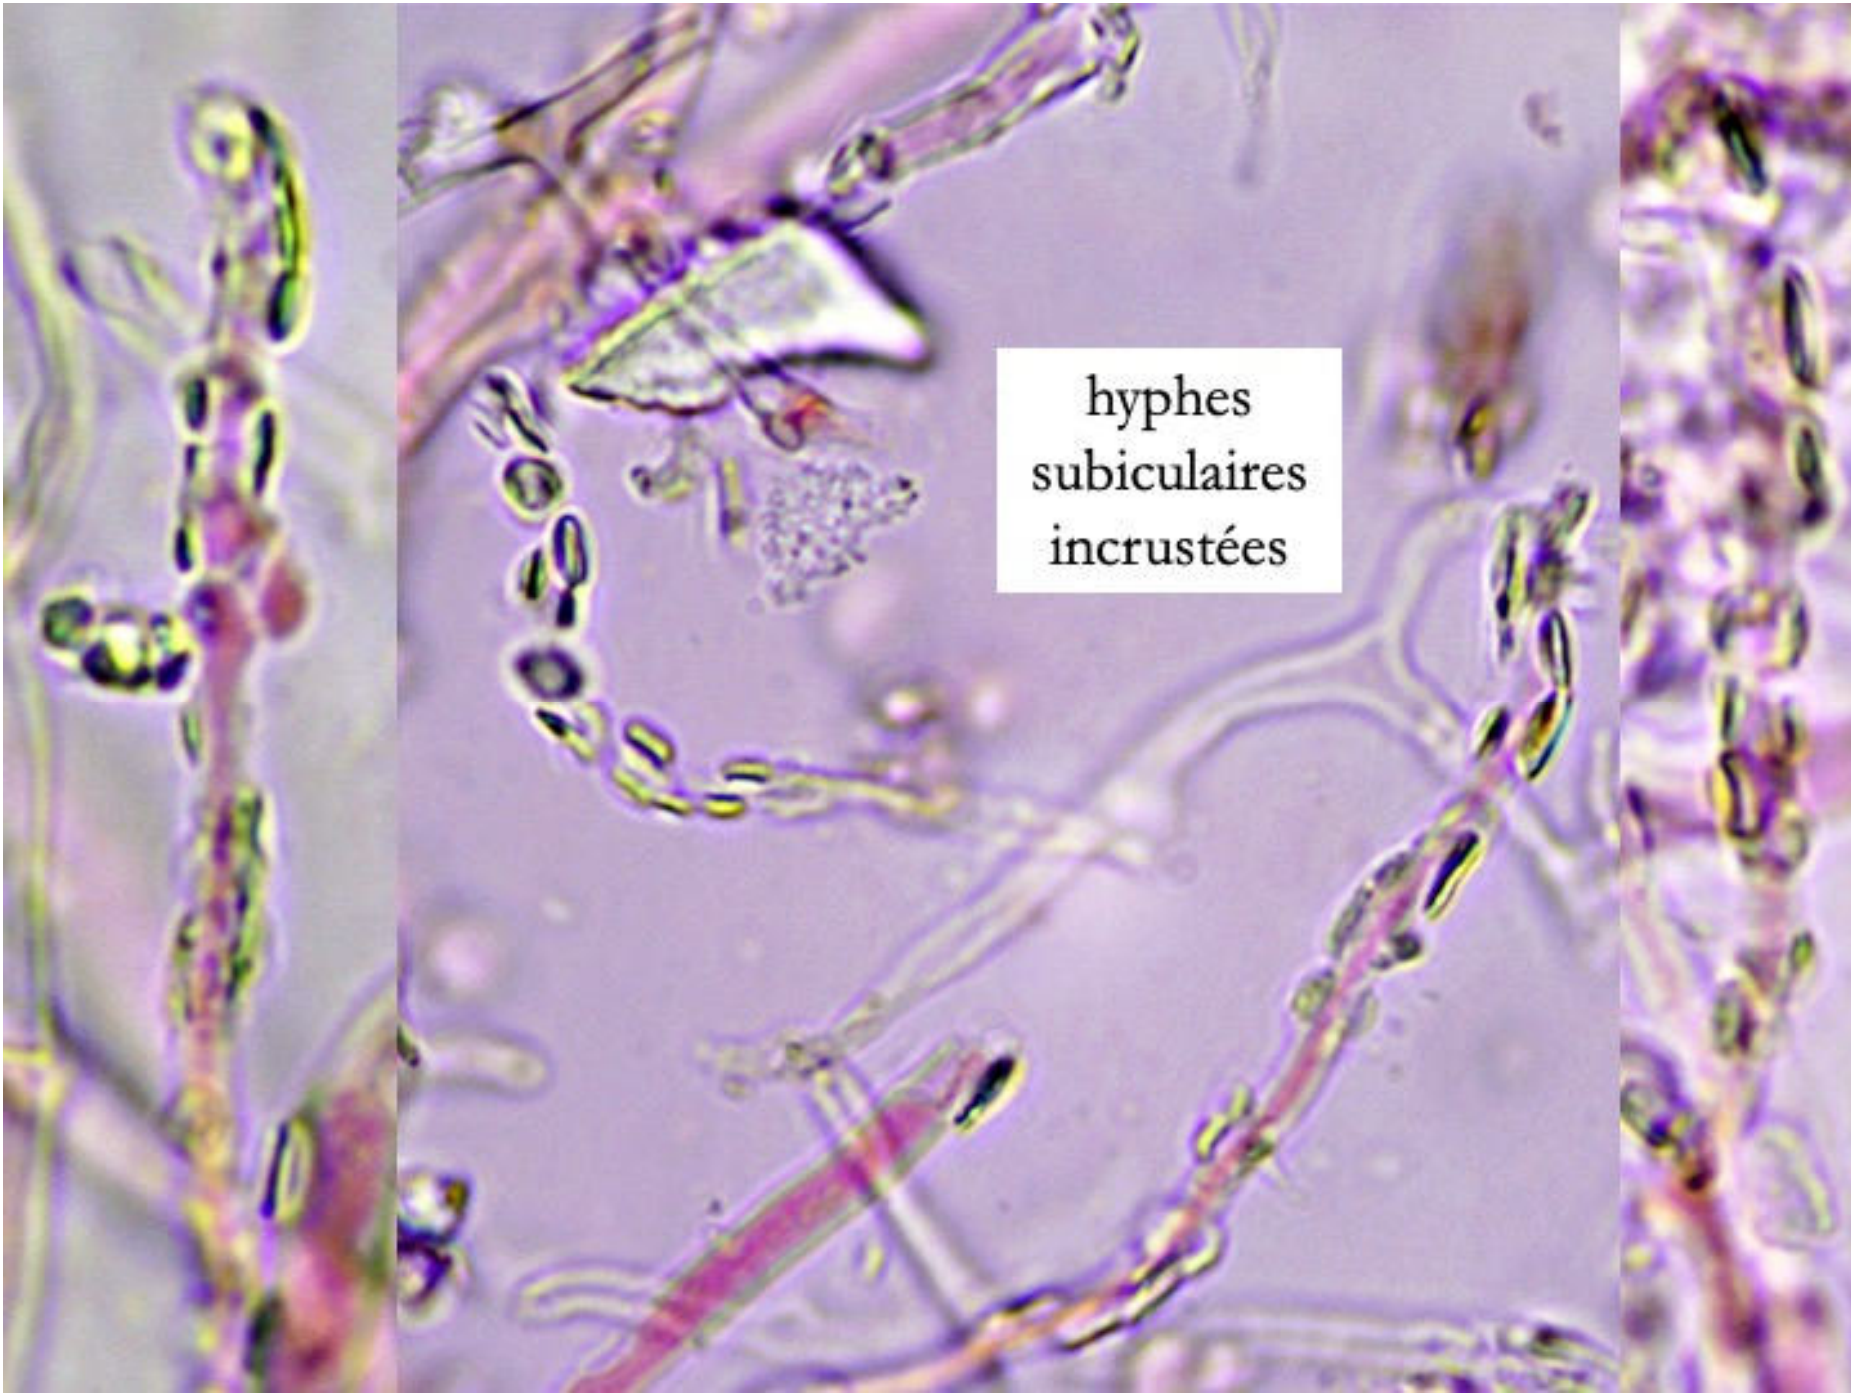

pleurobasides

pleurobaside

monomitique hyphes bouclées

A composite of three microscopic images showing fungal hyphae. The central image is the largest and shows several hyphae with numerous dark, oval-shaped inclusions. The left and right images are narrower vertical strips showing similar structures. The hyphae are thin and elongated, with the inclusions appearing as dark, somewhat refractile bodies within the lighter-colored cytoplasm.

hyphes
subcylindriques
incrassées